

Shooting club launches

A NEW AIR rifle and pistol club has started in Stamford at the Borderville Sports Centre.

The club, which runs sessions on Thursdays from 6-8pm, is open to all regardless of age or ability – no experience is necessary as instructors are available to help. It has equipment to use and the range for the first few nights will be set up over 10 metres.

County development officer Dave Carter said: “Anyone that wants to take part in competitions will be able to do so at county and national level, and all competition cards are shot at the club and posted on to local scorers.

“The sport is both an Olympic and world discipline and boasts a local Olympic and world champion in Barry Dagger.”

The club came about through councillors attending a disability day run by the rotary club in Stamford. The initial costs have been supported through a grant from the council.
